

KEEP OUR MASJIDS CLEAN

Islam teaches us that “Cleanliness is half of Imaan.” Islam also teaches us that the Masjids are the houses of Allah and that they must be respected, revered and honoured.

It is therefore extremely disheartening to find our Masjids littered during the month of Ramadaan. Date pits are thrown on the floor, the parking lot is littered with cigarette butts and food and drink are spilled on Masjid carpets.

If we are breaking our fast in the Masjid stick with dates and water. Otherwise use the designated area in the Masjid for other foods and drink.

Use the month of Ramadaan to break the habit of smoking. Keep the honour of the Masjid and make our Masjids smoke-free zones.

If we take care of the state of our own houses then surely the house of Allah Ta’ala deserves better.
