

YEAR END PARTIES

The year end brings a host of temptations and invitations to the unbridled embrace of our evil desires. Our approach to these invitations could easily decide our fate as dwellers of Paradise or denizens of Hell. Our Imaan and faith demands that at this critical juncture we contemplate the following:

Who are we? Are we those who follow every base desire and break the commands of the one who has created us and blessed us with life, health and wealth? Or are we Muslims who are obedient to Allah and our beloved Rasool ﷺ?

Being conscientious and upholding our Islamic principles is not only key to our salvation in the hereafter, but will also save us from much trauma and grief in our lives.

The amount of abuse perpetrated at such venues is only on the increase. There are many who attend as predators and with malicious intent. Spiked drinks and the rape that follows seems to be the norm at such events. The situation has become so evil that let alone women, even teenage boys are being drugged and sodomized at these parties. What joy and fun will be left, when we find our children traumatised and shattered at the hospital or the police station?

Our humble plea is that for Allah's sake, all plans for such parties should be cancelled with immediate effect. Every individual should ponder over death and its unpredictability. Would it not be the ultimate disgrace and failure if we had to pass away in such environments of sin and evil?
